I can already see the time when I ll stop coming home altogether. As Pa s mouthpiece, Ma does her job even better than he himself could do it. I m pelted with words all the time I m in the house. DECEMBER 14.--Three weeks is about all I could stand of the strike. Now my little money is gone and this morning I had to ask Ma for a half dollar. I had no car fare to go downtown with. But Ma, she said she d be blessed if she would give it to me, that it was hard for Pa to keep up this big household, and that he didn t propose to keep me on his shoulders much longer; that Sis was now big enough to get a steady and that it was high time that...
