In the spring of 1897 I operated in the Charity Hospital upon a young colored woman for a sarcoma of the thoracic wall requiring the resection of several inches of the third, fourth, and fifth ribs. It was impossible to separate the tumor from the pleura without tearing the latter; a rent of five inches was made, which permitted easily the thrusting of the whole hand into the pleural cavity. Suddenly was presented to our anxious view one of the most startling clinical pictures that the surgeon can ever be called upon to witness. At such a sight the stoutest heart will quaver. No wonder the older surgeons discountenanced such operations, and in the times when there was neither anaesthetic nor asepsis the surgeon might well be excused for...
