Confound your hypocrisy! cried I, in a rage. Dont be profane, said he, calmly. What I have said is true. Heaven will some day take Don Lopez; he is too good for this wicked world, and then, who knows what may happen! This was but sorry comfort, waiting for the bride to become a widow; but alas, I had no better! besides, it had cost me a heavy sum to obtain, and accordingly I prized it the more highly. If my anxieties were acute, apparently Don Lopezs mind was not in a state of perfect serenity. He stormed and raved at everybody and everything. He saw, or what was pretty much the same thing, he fancied he saw, a plot in the whole business; and swore he would bring the vengeance of the Holy Office upon everybody concerned in it. In this blessed frame of mind the departure of the newly-wedded pair took place in spite of all my entreaties; Don Lopez drove away with his young bride, --the last I beheld of her was a white hand waving a handkerchief from the window of the carriage. I looked, and--she was gone! If some were kind-hearted enough to pity me, the large majority of the company felt very differently, and bore anything but friendly feelings towards one who had marred the festivities, and cut short, --heaven could only tell by what number of days--the eating, dancing, singing, and merriment. The old ladies...
