Excerpt: .the remission of dues, if any, be left to the subordinate councils as the revenue of Grand Council was not more than sufficient to meet current expenses. Companion William W. Cooper, Correspondence Committee, makes the report covering seven pages and in order to do so he abandons the State method, and adopts the topical review. Commending on Warvelle s record of reception of the Ambassadors in Illinois he says: This reads somewhat like Mr. Gerard s description of his reception at the German court, and recalls his statement that he was very conspicuous by reason of the fact that he wore no court uniform. Are ambassadors at the Court of Illinois required to appear in court dress? If so, this may account for the absence of so many of the ministers plenipotentiary. Later, the Grand Master of Illinois reported that he had issued an...
